

I love my satalite radio and the quality of service it provides. I can't understand why the FCC would limit the services they provide, only to protect local stations. Innovation and creative destruction are the hallmarks of our strong economy. If I could get what I wanted from the AM/FM radio, I wouldn't be paying for satalite service. The traffic and weather service they want to provide are an important part of the reason I chose to buy the service. From a safety and convience standpoint, I don't want to wait to get traffic and weather reports every 20 minutes or so from AM/FM. Maybe you should limit how fast airplanes can fly so more people ride a bus??
